A Fence

Security guards observed two male suspects attempting to get onto campus by scaling a fence along the Kenner parking lot. Lawrence Police Detective T.L. Brackett, who was on patrol at the time, says that both suspects were not students and had no business on campus. The two suspects had given up the effort to keep their IDs on campus. The police are reviewing campus surveillance video for both suspects.

Triple the time, Triple the trouble

An unknown suspect broke into a room in Kenner and vandalized the room by jamming the doorlock, tampering with one of the computers and misplacing the items in the room. The damage had been occurring since February, with the most recent occurrence reported on Monday, April 6. LPD service was ordered and declined, but later requested. The LPD is actively investigating and facilities changed the lock to the door.

Where’s the fire?

A female staff member called Security because an unknown suspect maliciously tampered with a fire extinguisher in Conover on Monday, April 6. The fire extinguisher had either been partially or fully discharged, but the rest of the fire extinguishers in the building were checked and fine. The damage cost for replacing the extinguisher was estimated to be $90.

Rozanski’s from page 1

The mentors were members of various campus organizations, fraternities and sororities. Rozanski, a founding member of Rho Kappa, a blue and white and gold rider ribbons.

day in. Business students can find out on the second floor of Swartwout and ask the information booth associate.

College of Liberal Arts students can find out on the second floor of the Fine Arts building, room 207.

Pick up a course registration booklet, suggested course selection sheet on your major and academic counseling book.

The first is what you really need to register, the other two are for reference. You can pick up these materials at the same place you inquired about your major.

Get familiar with the registration booklet. Flip through it and understand how to read the page.

A look at the suggested course selection sheet. This is a one page paper, outlining suggested courses to take in and what order to take them. For example, if you are a marketing major, the sheet will suggest elective classes as well as all the required courses in your field for each semester.

Although it is not necessary to follow this outline exactly, it is a good guideline to follow if you want to graduate in four years.

Review the academic catalog book.

If you usually receive this book as a freshman, however, if you do not have one, it is highly recommended that you get one. This book provides a description of every course offered at Rider. Also included are some important policies, such as overloading, part-time/full-time status and summer courses.

Read up on what classes interest you, what level they are at and if you agree prerequisites

Find that time works best for you.

Are you a morning person, schedule your classes in the morning and vice versa.

Ask classmates and friends who courses and professors they enjoyed.

You can also visit VirtuallRatings.com to find information on specific professors.

8. Know that the hard work is done, fill out the yellow from inside the course registration booklet.

Include course name, course number and section, along with your second choice of classes. This is in case a class is full before you register.

9. See your advisor during office hours to have your schedule signed and approved.

The registrar is located at the bottom floor of Fine Arts.

Register as early as possible.

Find out what day you will need to register by checking Rider’s web site under “Registrar.” Go as early as possible to ensure your first selection of classes. Often, if you register online, you can go at a certain time of day. These times are also listed online in the semester course booklet. The longer you wait, the more of a headache registration will be.

Tips for a smooth class registration

1. Plan out your schedule at least one week in advance.

You usually receive this book as a freshman, however, if you do not have one, it is highly recommended that you get one. This book provides a description of every course offered at Rider. Also included are some important policies, such as overloading, part-time/full-time status and summer courses.

Read up on what classes interest you, what level they are at and if you agree prerequisites

Find that time works best for you.

Are you a morning person, schedule your classes in the morning and vice versa.

Ask classmates and friends who courses and professors they enjoyed.

You can also visit VirtuallRatings.com to find information on specific professors.

8. Know that the hard work is done, fill out the yellow from inside the course registration booklet.

Include course name, course number and section, along with your second choice of classes. This is in case a class is full before you register.

9. See your advisor during office hours to have your schedule signed and approved.

The registrar is located at the bottom floor of Fine Arts.

Register as early as possible.

Find out what day you will need to register by checking Rider’s web site under “Registrar.” Go as early as possible to ensure your first selection of classes. Often, if you register online, you can go at a certain time of day. These times are also listed online in the semester course booklet. The longer you wait, the more of a headache registration will be.