Clerical union negotiates

Brooke Olster
Staff Writer

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), the secretarial union that consists of over 126 Rider and Westminster Choir College secretaries, clerks and accountants, recently extended their ongoing negotiations with the University.

Union members will vote on the agreement on Sept. 25. If passed, the Board of Trustees at Rider must then ratify the agreement before it can be enacted. The next time the entire board will meet will be on Oct. 2. Once the contract is approved, more information regarding the changes can be provided.

The union does not include the executive secretar...