‘LIBRARY’ FROM PAGE 1

“There are too few spaces for students to actually work with the material,” he said.

He is also looking into adding a café-style seating area opposite the circulation desk, which would add a more relaxed atmosphere where students could have food and drinks.

Dust covers will also be obtained for books in the display cases throughout the library that will make them easier on the eye and “extend their longevity in the collection,” according to Chickering.

Chickering holds a certificate of advanced librarianship from Columbia University and has previously worked at Pratt Institute in New York. At Rider he oversees the operations of Moore Library at the Lawrenceville campus and the Talbott Library at Westminster Choir College.

Better use of the library in students’ courses is another improvement on Chickering’s list.

“I am busy trying to learn how the faculty builds a link between the classroom and information in the library,” he said.

Talbott Library will be going through some changes as well.

“Right now we are looking into getting all the material from that library into the catalog,” said Chickering. “A lot of it is in the old card catalog, but not in the online catalog. It is a real pressing issue.”

Talbott recently had an upgrade in its books, but the possibility of adding a second level to that library is being examined, according to Chickering.

The website that serves both libraries is another area that Chickering would like to modify. He wants to see improvement in the site’s “architecture and graphic display.”

Chickering said that many of these changes are encouraged by President Mordechai Rozanski and fit into his new plans for the University.

“The President has announced a call for initiatives that would improve the success of the University and its students,” Chickering said.

Women’s basketball coach retires after 36 yrs.

By Jared Vichko

Sports Editor

After 14 years at Rider, Head Women’s Basketball Coach Eldon Price will retire at the end of the year.

Price, who has been coaching for a total of 36 years, will hang it up and retire on Aug. 31 to spend more time with his family, he said.

“My wife and I talked this over a few years ago and tried to figure out when it was the right time to leave and 65 was the magical number,” said Price. “I’ll be 65 next September, I will be officially retired on Aug. 31.”

Price said he broke the news to his players in a team meeting he called on Monday.

“We were shocked,” said junior Katie Hall. “He has been here for a very long time and we all grew close to him.”

Price compiled more than 150 wins at Rider, the only coach to do so, and was twice named the East Coast Conference Coach of the Year.

He recruited seven of Rider’s top 12 all-time leading scorers, six of the top 11 all-time rebounders and five of the top nine assist leaders. He also coached 11 All-Conference players, including a Conference Player of the Year, seven All-Newcomer team members and three Rider Athletics Hall of Famers.

In conjunction with controlling safety at fraternity social events, social Greeks were required to attend a lecture on the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 8, titled, “United or Busted,” which focused on supporting one another to ensure safe social events.

On Monday, Sept. 6, at 6 p.m. in the Cavalla Room, Judge Mitch Crane from Campus Speaks will lead a discussion about risk management strategies, alcohol at social events, liability and other relevant issues. The event is open to all Rider students.

The number of incidents relating to vandalism in the fraternity houses have decreased since fraternities have begun controlling their social events more carefully, said Keith Kemo, director of Judicial Affairs.

Residence Life remains vigilant as Greeks confront the issue of overcrowded parties, which can lead a high number of intoxicated students returning to residence halls late at night.

“Two weeks ago there was an incident in Swiftlik where tons of flyers got ripped down,” said senior Orlando Resto, a Swiftlik resident advisor. “I think it happened by people who were pissed because they didn’t get into a frat party. I wish that people returning from the fraternities come back safe.”

Resto recalled last spring’s riots near the fraternities and in the residence hall quad. He said that he thinks measures taken by Greeks to control the number they let into their houses for social events is a good idea.

According to Rider’s Greek policies, all social events must be registered with the Office of Greek Life 48 hours in advance of their social event and members of the organization must sign up to work as sober party monitors and complete a risk management consultation form 24 hours in advance.

They must also adhere to Rider’s alcohol policy, as stated in The Source, and they must also submit two guest lists to Division 1 victories in a season with 18.

In 1993-94 Price’s Broncs set a new Rider record for conference players.

• Has coached 11 All-Conference players.

• Has coached 11 All-Conference players.

• Has coached 11 All-Conference players.

• Only Rider-Women Basketball coach to compile more than 150 career wins.

• Has coached 11 All-Conference players.

• In 1993-94 Price’s Broncs set a new Rider record for Division 1 victories in a season with 18.

• Spent 19 years establishing the health/physical education and athletic programs at Penn State Beaver campus in Monaca, Pa.

‘GREEK’ FROM PAGE 2 possible.”

Jacobs said that when a group of people leave his house, he allows another group to enter until the house reaches its capacity. He also said that he does not hesitate to call Security if there is a large number of people on the lawn in front of the house.

“We are protective of who comes into our house,” he said. “I think our parties will be more controlled in the future.”

Coach Edmund Price sticking up for his team during a game.

“I’m definitely going to miss the players the most,” said Price. “The first and second team I ever had when I first started back in 1989, were basically the young ladies who set the tradition for the great group of girls we have today.”

Price took a different approach than his peers when it came to recruiting, looking for academics first and talent second. In 1995-96, his team had the best grade point average in the nation and the following year they ranked second.

“We make a point of bringing in players that we think are going to fit into our system. We look for more than talent in a recruit; we’re looking at them as a whole person.”

The players realize that Price has done much more than teach them the x’s and o’s of the game.

“We’ll remember for all the ways he helped us off the court,” said Hall. “He would do anything for us. If we had a personal issue or a problem with a class, he really does care.”

Despite his love for his team and players, Price welcomes the idea of being more involved in family affairs.

“I have a couple sons, one lives in Georgia and the other lives in Florida,” said Price. “Six of my grandchildren are there and they are right in that age where they are involved in football and basketball. My wife and I haven’t been able to see them because of my obligation to basketball here. We’re excited about being with our family.”

Price’s replacement will be chosen from a national pool by a yet to be appointed committee.

He said he plans to use his retirement years to travel and see things that he and his wife were unable to see because of the grueling schedule of a head coach, “which people sometimes don’t realize is a year round job.”

“TWO weeks ago there was an incident in Swiftlik where tons of flyers got ripped down,” said Chickering. “A lot of it is in the old card catalog, but not in the online catalog. It is a real pressing issue.”

Talbott recently had an upgrade in its books, but the possibility of adding a second level to that library is being examined, according to Chickering.

The website that serves both libraries is another area that Chickering would like to modify. He wants to see improvement in the site’s “architecture and graphic display.”

Chickering said that many of these changes are encouraged by President Mordechai Rozanski and fit into his new plans for the University.

“The President has announced a call for initiatives that would improve the success of the University and its students,” Chickering said.

By Jared Vichko

Sports Editor

After 14 years at Rider, Head Women’s Basketball Coach Eldon Price will retire at the end of the year.

Price, who has been coaching for a total of 36 years, will hang it up and retire on Aug. 31 to spend more time with his family, he said.

“My wife and I talked this over a few years ago and tried to figure out when it was the right time to leave and 65 was the magical number,” said Price. “I’ll be 65 next September, I will be officially retired on Aug. 31.”

Price said he broke the news to his players in a team meeting he called on Monday.

“We were shocked,” said junior Katie Hall. “He has been here for a very long time and we all grew close to him.”

Price compiled more than 150 wins at Rider, the only coach to do so, and was twice named the East Coast Conference Coach of the Year.

He recruited seven of Rider’s top 12 all-time leading scorers, six of the top 11 all-time rebounders and five of the top nine assist leaders. He also coached 11 All-Conference players, including a Conference Player of the Year, seven All-Newcomer team members and three Rider Athletics Hall of Famers.

In conjunction with controlling safety at fraternity social events, social Greeks were required to attend a lecture on the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 8, titled, “United or Busted,” which focused on supporting one another to ensure safe social events.

On Monday, Sept. 6, at 6 p.m. in the Cavalla Room, Judge Mitch Crane from Campus Speaks will lead a discussion about risk management strategies, alcohol at social events, liability and other relevant issues. The event is open to all Rider students.

The number of incidents relating to vandalism in the fraternity houses have decreased since fraternities have begun controlling their social events more carefully, said Keith Kemo, director of Judicial Affairs.

Residence Life remains vigilant as Greeks confront the issue of overcrowded parties, which can lead a high number of intoxicated students returning to residence halls late at night.

“Two weeks ago there was an incident in Swiftlik where tons of flyers got ripped down,” said Chickering. “A lot of it is in the old card catalog, but not in the online catalog. It is a real pressing issue.”

Talbott recently had an upgrade in its books, but the possibility of adding a second level to that library is being examined, according to Chickering.

The website that serves both libraries is another area that Chickering would like to modify. He wants to see improvement in the site’s “architecture and graphic display.”

Chickering said that many of these changes are encouraged by President Mordechai Rozanski and fit into his new plans for the University.

“The President has announced a call for initiatives that would improve the success of the University and its students,” Chickering said.

Bill Chickering creates new plans for the Moore and Talbott libraries in his office.

Lawrenceville campus and the Talbott Library at Westminster Choir College.

Better use of the library in students’ courses is another improvement on Chickering’s list.

“I am busy trying to learn how the faculty builds a link between the classroom and information in the library,” he said.

Talbott Library will be going through some changes as well.

“Right now we are looking into getting all the material from that library into the catalog,” said Chickering. “A lot of it is in the old card catalog, but not in the online catalog. It is a real pressing issue.”

Talbott recently had an upgrade in its books, but the possibility of adding a second level to that library is being examined, according to Chickering.

The website that serves both libraries is another area that Chickering would like to modify. He wants to see improvement in the site’s “architecture and graphic display.”

Chickering said that many of these changes are encouraged by President Mordechai Rozanski and fit into his new plans for the University.

“The President has announced a call for initiatives that would improve the success of the University and its students,” Chickering said.