Wrestling From Page 12

New Jersey State Championship at 130 pounds after finishing 2nd, 3rd and 4th in consecutive years. Ranked second in the country as a senior last year, Stinson became the all-time winningest wrestler in New Jersey history, amassing an astounding record of 144-6 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other N.J. native, Ryan Cunningham from Cherry Hill, was ranked third in the 152 weight class last year and has won the State Championship in his astounding record of 144-6 in his four years at Camden Catholic.

The other newcomers include John Caemmerer, Matt Carey, Shaun Clardis, Joe Galante, Mike Molosky and Roland Nichols. All of these men will look to achieve much in their four years at Rider. On Thursday, Rider started its 2003 recruiting, signing two more highly touted seniors to letters of intent. Both Don Fisch, from Delsea High School, and Jeff Black from Absegami are ranked within the top five in the nation in their weight classes and will be sure to make an impact once they arrive at Rider next fall.

Only the second coaching job in the team’s history, Taylor has been leading the team since 1978. He said that the team this year has a very good chance of reclaiming the CAA championship, saying, “if we can get everyone at their goals, eighth in goals per game, currently eighth in the nation in three times. Cunningham’s record is not far behind Stinson’s, with another incredible mark of 140-9 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other N.J. native, Ryan Cunningham from Cherry Hill, was ranked third in the 152 weight class last year and has won the State Championship in his astounding record of 144-6 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other newcomers include John Caemmerer, Matt Carey, Shaun Clardis, Joe Galante, Mike Molosky and Roland Nichols. All of these men will look to achieve much in their four years at Rider. On Thursday, Rider started its 2003 recruiting, signing two more highly touted seniors to letters of intent. Both Don Fisch, from Delsea High School, and Jeff Black from Absegami are ranked within the top five in the nation in their weight classes and will be sure to make an impact once they arrive at Rider next fall.

Only the second coaching job in the team’s history, Taylor has been leading the team since 1978. He said that the team this year has a very good chance of reclaiming the CAA championship, saying, “if we can get everyone at their goals, eighth in goals per game, currently eighth in the nation in three times. Cunningham’s record is not far behind Stinson’s, with another incredible mark of 140-9 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other N.J. native, Ryan Cunningham from Cherry Hill, was ranked third in the 152 weight class last year and has won the State Championship in his astounding record of 144-6 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other newcomers include John Caemmerer, Matt Carey, Shaun Clardis, Joe Galante, Mike Molosky and Roland Nichols. All of these men will look to achieve much in their four years at Rider. On Thursday, Rider started its 2003 recruiting, signing two more highly touted seniors to letters of intent. Both Don Fisch, from Delsea High School, and Jeff Black from Absegami are ranked within the top five in the nation in their weight classes and will be sure to make an impact once they arrive at Rider next fall.

Only the second coaching job in the team’s history, Taylor has been leading the team since 1978. He said that the team this year has a very good chance of reclaiming the CAA championship, saying, “if we can get everyone at their goals, eighth in goals per game, currently eighth in the nation in three times. Cunningham’s record is not far behind Stinson’s, with another incredible mark of 140-9 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other N.J. native, Ryan Cunningham from Cherry Hill, was ranked third in the 152 weight class last year and has won the State Championship in his astounding record of 144-6 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other newcomers include John Caemmerer, Matt Carey, Shaun Clardis, Joe Galante, Mike Molosky and Roland Nichols. All of these men will look to achieve much in their four years at Rider. On Thursday, Rider started its 2003 recruiting, signing two more highly touted seniors to letters of intent. Both Don Fisch, from Delsea High School, and Jeff Black from Absegami are ranked within the top five in the nation in their weight classes and will be sure to make an impact once they arrive at Rider next fall.

Only the second coaching job in the team’s history, Taylor has been leading the team since 1978. He said that the team this year has a very good chance of reclaiming the CAA championship, saying, “if we can get everyone at their goals, eighth in goals per game, currently eighth in the nation in three times. Cunningham’s record is not far behind Stinson’s, with another incredible mark of 140-9 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other N.J. native, Ryan Cunningham from Cherry Hill, was ranked third in the 152 weight class last year and has won the State Championship in his astounding record of 144-6 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other newcomers include John Caemmerer, Matt Carey, Shaun Clardis, Joe Galante, Mike Molosky and Roland Nichols. All of these men will look to achieve much in their four years at Rider. On Thursday, Rider started its 2003 recruiting, signing two more highly touted seniors to letters of intent. Both Don Fisch, from Delsea High School, and Jeff Black from Absegami are ranked within the top five in the nation in their weight classes and will be sure to make an impact once they arrive at Rider next fall.

Only the second coaching job in the team’s history, Taylor has been leading the team since 1978. He said that the team this year has a very good chance of reclaiming the CAA championship, saying, “if we can get everyone at their goals, eighth in goals per game, currently eighth in the nation in three times. Cunningham’s record is not far behind Stinson’s, with another incredible mark of 140-9 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other N.J. native, Ryan Cunningham from Cherry Hill, was ranked third in the 152 weight class last year and has won the State Championship in his astounding record of 144-6 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other newcomers include John Caemmerer, Matt Carey, Shaun Clardis, Joe Galante, Mike Molosky and Roland Nichols. All of these men will look to achieve much in their four years at Rider. On Thursday, Rider started its 2003 recruiting, signing two more highly touted seniors to letters of intent. Both Don Fisch, from Delsea High School, and Jeff Black from Absegami are ranked within the top five in the nation in their weight classes and will be sure to make an impact once they arrive at Rider next fall.

Only the second coaching job in the team’s history, Taylor has been leading the team since 1978. He said that the team this year has a very good chance of reclaiming the CAA championship, saying, “if we can get everyone at their goals, eighth in goals per game, currently eighth in the nation in three times. Cunningham’s record is not far behind Stinson’s, with another incredible mark of 140-9 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other N.J. native, Ryan Cunningham from Cherry Hill, was ranked third in the 152 weight class last year and has won the State Championship in his astounding record of 144-6 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other newcomers include John Caemmerer, Matt Carey, Shaun Clardis, Joe Galante, Mike Molosky and Roland Nichols. All of these men will look to achieve much in their four years at Rider. On Thursday, Rider started its 2003 recruiting, signing two more highly touted seniors to letters of intent. Both Don Fisch, from Delsea High School, and Jeff Black from Absegami are ranked within the top five in the nation in their weight classes and will be sure to make an impact once they arrive at Rider next fall.

Only the second coaching job in the team’s history, Taylor has been leading the team since 1978. He said that the team this year has a very good chance of reclaiming the CAA championship, saying, “if we can get everyone at their goals, eighth in goals per game, currently eighth in the nation in three times. Cunningham’s record is not far behind Stinson’s, with another incredible mark of 140-9 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other N.J. native, Ryan Cunningham from Cherry Hill, was ranked third in the 152 weight class last year and has won the State Championship in his astounding record of 144-6 in his four years at Camden Catholic. The other newcomers include John Caemmerer, Matt Carey, Shaun Clardis, Joe Galante, Mike Molosky and Roland Nichols. All of these men will look to achieve much in their four years at Rider. On Thursday, Rider started its 2003 recruiting, signing two more highly touted seniors to letters of intent. Both Don